IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE District of Columbia, the 11th day of February, 1896. Almeda Bradley vs. Henry W. Bradley. No. 16984. On motion of the plaintiff, by Mr. W. Preston Williamson, her solicitor tattorney), it is ordered that the defendant, cause his appearance to be entered herein on or before the first rule-day occurring forty days after this day: otherwise the cause will be proceeded with as in case of default. The object of this stifts to sectire an absolute divorce on the part of the complainant from the defendant on the grounds of desertion and crackly.

A half hour later a glimpse at that selfsame room, which its owner laughingly declared she didn't mind having us see, as we weren't a bit "fossy," revealed a chaos of feminine fripperies that even staggered a woman not painfully neat herself; for of all the untidy places that we had ever entered this dainty room was the most of a hodge-podge, from which all semblance of order had departed. The pretty dressing-table was left with perfume bottles unstopped, a powder puff was on the floor, at Buffalo rested on the satin ribbons of the cushions and mats, and also covered the face of the little clock ticking away behind his white mask, and even flecked the oval mirror at the back. Hairpins and carling-tongs fraternized in Bohemian unvery positive evidence of their recent use.

the middle of the floor were the gown and silk petticoat worn in the morning the bodice was flung over the foot of the bed, and shoes and stockings seemed to be everywhere. The closet door stood open, revealing a hat box on the crowded shelf with its cover half open and a feather and ribbon streamer straggling out over the gowns below. Gloves and purse were on the mantel, and even the little writing desk had its unusual equipment of a feather box and cast-off jacket. "It's awful, isn't it?" laugh the cause of all this disorder, "but positively I was in such a rush I had to leave things peli-mell or be to take perhaps two or three steps more hang up the discarded garments. place the hat box cover on as it should be. leave the dressing-table tidy, and have no fear of outsiders catching a glimpse of a dressing room that would give them a very poor opinion of its inmate? Orderliness is just as easy to acquire as untidiness and facilitates where the other retards. Undoubtedly the shoes, skirts, and etecteras left where she had taken them off were many times in her way in the hasty preparations that necessitated journeys all about the little higgledy-piggledy room.

Order is Leaven's first law, and though we abominate fussiness, still a place for everything and everything in its place makes it easier to get ready to either stay at home or go away, and is not nearly so hard to go through a general straightening-up every time one gets back from a hasty leave-taking of our own apartments.— London Society.

PRESS AND PULPIT.

The Minister Who Assails the News paper May Be Wrong.

Kaneas City Star. It may be said in general terms that the preacher who assaults, attacks, belabors, ocolds or unduly criticises the press of this country is, to use what is possibly a slangy yet most expressive phrase, "off." He is usually "way off" on his alleged facts and farther "off" on their application. If not intentionally wrong he is greatly mistakes:

f not a willful slanderer he still puts him self in the attitude of one who is abusiv without being intelligent. The man who says what he knows is false is a relative of tim who says what is false because he does not know any better. The preacher who abuses the newspapers is guilty of various sins of omission and commission in doing so, but his most glaring offense is ingratitude. He is really assaulting his best friend, the friend of the church and of the "cause" generally.

He (the preacher) is turning his mud buttery on a division of his own army. This is said of the good preacher, of the clergy man who is still of reputable standing in his church and denomination and who moral character is as yet massailed. As to the bad preachers, the impostors, the cierical fakirs, sensation mongers and mountebanks the ministerial wolves whose borrowed pelta it is the duty of the press to remove, their virtuous criticisms are not under considera tion. On such the press confers no favors and from them it expects none. But the good preacher, the minister in "good and regular standing," whose intentions may be supposed to be honorable, who lets his tongue run on about the wickedness and corruption and venality and licentiousness and falseness of the press, is guilty of re-turning evil for good.

The obligations of the ministry individu-ally and collectively to the press are mani-fold and incalculable. All the "notices" read from the pulpit are repeated by the press a thousandfold. All the enterprises and good causes advocated by the pulpit are heralded and promulgated by the press. The voice of the pulpit is, as it were, magnified and enlarged. The serinon actually listened to by a few hundred persons is, through the agency of the newspaper, given to hundreds of thousands. To quarrel with so useful and devoted an ally seems on the part of the pulpit, to put it mildly, a piece of arrant stupidity, and it is a pleasure to believe that the body of the clergy are coming to regard it as such.

The preacher of the annual sermon on the fiendishness of the American newspaper is coming to be regarded as a moldy dealer in chestauts old and brown. He is set down as a thrasher of last year's straw-The brighter, braver, and greater majority of the preachers stand by their friends and helpers, the newspapers. They do not bring false accusations against these brethren. Thus justice is done and the world is helped and blessed.
